

BKBM Workers' Compensation practice adds two partners

By February 27, 2017

Bovis Kyle's Workers' Compensation practice added two partners from another metro area firm on February 27, 2017, continuing the trend of growth of the firm's largest practice group.

Kim Roper joins the firm as a partner with 16 years of experience in the area of Workers' Compensation with another Atlanta metro area firm. She brings with her a wealth of litigation experience in Title 34 matters along with a practical skillset that will add to the management capacity of the firm's quickly growing Workers' Compensation practice group.

Angela Tartline also joined the firm practice group as a partner. She practiced with Ms. Roper at the same metro area firm for 10 years, also in the area of Workers' Compensation. She has frequently been tapped for presentations throughout the United States to various educational groups and clients, bringing with her a wealth of litigation and claim management experience.

Managing partner Jack Burch noted the new additions fit into the firm growth model and culture. "We are thrilled to add two very quality attorneys as partners on our Workers' Compensation team. This team has seen dynamic growth in the last three years, and we expect that to continue into the future. Adding partners of the caliber of Kim and Angie fits into the future vision we have not just for our Workers' Compensation Department, but for our firm as a whole."
