

Subrogation in Georgia

Bovis, Kyle, Burch & Medlin, LLC has a long history of obtaining strong recovery for its insurance clients through its subrogation practice. Bovis, Kyle, Burch & Medlin, LLC attorneys have guided clients through the pitfalls of Georgia law, which disfavors some forms of subrogation.

The vast experience of the firm's litigators in other practice areas, such as surety, fidelity, estates, product liability and construction defects, make Bovis, Kyle a particularly strong partner with our clients' recovery. Those attorneys working in the insurance first party arena also contribute to the firm's subrogation success.

The firm has pursued recovery in a broad category of underlying damages. These include general indemnity, personal injury, workers' compensation, property damage, medical expenses for health plans and surety/fidelity.

Our attorneys have also assisted clients with subrogation issues involving other states' laws, as well as federal law. The wealth of experience enjoyed by Bovis, Kyle, Burch & Medlin, LLC's clients in this area means that those cases which should be pursued are pursued to the fullest extent, and those which should be resolved early or abandoned are treated appropriately.
