

Serving All Your Construction Law Needs

Bovis, Kyle, Burch & Medlin, LLC provides full-service representation to clients on their construction law needs, including:

- Negotiating and drafting business agreements
- Filing the statutory notice of commencement
- Assisting in the perfection of lien rights
- Investigating potential and pending claims
- Negotiating to avoid escalation of disputes
- Mediation and arbitration
- Litigation
- Pursuing and collecting recovery

Our construction law team has represented contractors, suppliers, developers, and owners. Whether you are currently engaged in the construction industry or are considering breaking into the field, our attorneys can help you ensure that, from a legal perspective, everything is in place.

The Advantage of our Construction Law Team

At Bovis, Kyle, Burch & Medlin, LLC we have a team of attorneys who advise clients on all construction matters. Having a full-service team in place gives the firm flexibility to deal efficiently with matters of any size. Although we handle most matters efficiently with only one attorney, we easily absorb the most exceptional case due to the teamwork our construction team utilizes.

We recognize the complexity of the issues and disputes your business is facing. The attorneys that make up our construction team have a wealth of experience advising parties about their rights and duties in the construction industry. Working alongside our exceptional support staff, our team develops the legal strategies that best suit you and your unique situation.

Convenience When You Need It Most

The hallmark of our practice is cost-effective service — no matter the practice area. Instead of artificially low-balling our hourly rates, we focus on the bottom line for every client.

If our involvement offers little chance of improving that bottom-line result, we advise our clients accordingly. We frequently suggest ideas or approaches that can improve the total picture, including the end result and expense.

This combination of experience and focus on cost-effectiveness frequently allows us to exceed our construction clients' expectations. We know the construction industry and work well with construction and accounting consultants, who also play an important role in legal affairs. There is also the added benefit of being able to consult with other professionals within our firm who are experts in another area, like accounting, environmental matters, corporate transactions, municipal law and products liability.
